Brooklyn Museum Gallery/Studio Program, Now in Its Twentieth Year, Announces Registration for Spring Semester 2006

The Brooklyn Museum's Gallery/Studio Program, now in its twentieth year, offers a season of fun with challenging studio art courses for students age six to adult. Participants develop art skills through studying the Museum's collections and special exhibitions and experimenting with materials and creative techniques in hands-on classes. Instruction is available in painting, printmaking, drawing, sculpture, digital photography, and mixed media. Each class has ten two-hour sessions. Spring semester classes are offered on Saturdays and Sundays.

Scholarships are available for students ages six to eighteen (application deadline is January 22). High school students can apply for the work-study program (application deadline January 30), in which students attend a Gallery/Studio Program course free of charge in exchange for assisting Museum instructors in classes with students ages six through nine.

Registration forms and payment in full must be received (by mail, fax, or drop off) by March 5. Early registration is encouraged, since classes fill up quickly. To obtain class schedules or registration, scholarship, or work-study applications, call (718) 501-6230, e-mail gallery-studio@brooklynmuseum.org or visit www.brooklynmuseum.org/education/gallery-studio. Tuition is $160 for Members, $175 for non-Members, and $15 for scholarship recipients. Members receive priority handling, on a first-come, first-served basis, January 30 to February 12. Registration forms for non-Members will be processed, in the order in which they are received, February 13 to March 5.

Supported by the Helena Rubenstein Foundation and other generous donors.
